7 BILLION ACTIONS

"A world of 7 billion is both a challenge and an opportunity," "Globally, people are living longer, healthier lives and choosing to have smaller families. But reducing inequalities and finding ways to ensure the well-being of people alive today - as well as the generations that follow - will require new ways of thinking and unprecedented global cooperation,"

The campaign is to call for actions individually to solve problems now. As we are part of the world, our action can have an immediate impact on the other part of the globe.

Action can reduce inequalities and find new ways to preserve peace and development for our community and planet.
